Presents

THE GLOBAL HEALTH LECTURE SERIES

Featuring: Emmy-Winning filmmaker
Lisa Russell, MPH

Lisa Russell, MPH is an Emmy-winning filmmaker with a Master's in Public Health who has 10+ years experience producing films/creative campaigns and curates artistic performances for UN/NGO agencies. With a diverse portfolio of creative work that spans the arts, social justice and global development, Lisa is on a mission to revolutionize storytelling for the social good. As Founder and CEO of StoryShifter, Lisa is launching a new entertainment portal for the social good, powered by machine learning and data analytics. Her goal is to grow the world's largest roster of international artists, storytellers, and innovators who are committed to using their talents to address racial and gender inequalities, promote health and education, and protect the planet.
